BLACKLIST AGAIN ISSUE WHILE D. A. R. GATHERS TO LAUNCH CONVENTION

Mrs. Baillie Fights Ouster; Is Planning Appeal to National Conclave.

6,000 ARE EXPECTED AT OPENING SESSION

Electioneering in Crowded Hotel Lobbies Heralds Spirited Contests.

200 GIRLS WILL TAKE PART IN PROCESSION

Wreath Is Placed on Unknown Soldier's Tomb; Members Who Died Honored.

With 6,000 delegates and alternates in attendance, the thirty-eighth congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be opened this morning at 10 o'clock in the Washington Auditorium.

There will be three sessions daily until Saturday, when only two will be held. Election of a president general to succeed Mrs. Alfred J. Brouseau, and the resumption of the "blacklist" battle which resulted last June in the expulsion from the society of Mrs. Helen Tuffe Baillie, of Boston, are principal features for the week.

Mrs. Baillie, who was expelled for declaring the society had "blacklisted" certain persons whose views did not agree with those of the society, has issued a statement in which she reiterates her position, and declares she will seek reinstatement.

Mrs. Brouseau Replies.

Mrs. Brouseau also issued a statement in which she makes known that Mrs. Baillie's petition for reinstatement would be considered, but that she would not be allowed to introduce new testimony.

"Assembly," sounded on a bugle by Arthur S. Wilcomb, second leader of the United States Marine Band, will be the signal for the congress to open this morning.

The bugle call will be followed by a colorful procession of national officers, state regents and vice regents escorted by pages bearing the state banners. A living bouquet of 200 American girls, representing every State of the Union, who have come here to act as pages during the congress will be the first feature of the procession. With Mrs. Brouseau, president general, who will be the last to enter, will be her two pages, Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the Governor of Connecticut, and Miss Bina Deneen, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Deneen, of Illinois.

First Session's Program.

After the congress is formally convened by Mrs. Brouseau, prayer will be offered by Mrs. Matthew Brewster, of New Orleans, La., chaplain general of the society. Mrs. Charles Brand, wife of Representative Brand, of Ohio, chairman of the committee on the correct use of the flag, will lead the assembly in a salute to the flag. "The American Creed" will be recited by William Tyler Page, its author, who is chief clerk of the House of Representatives.

Mrs. Brouseau will then make her annual address, in which it is said she will make a strong plea for the D. A. R. to maintain its crusade against atheism and ultra-liberal theories.

Greetings will be brought to the delegates from the children of the American Revolution by its national president, Mrs. Josiah A. Van Orsdel; and other greetings will be given by Col. W. B. Lade, Engineer Commissioner of the District; Col. Walter Scott, of New York City, of the advisory board; Mr. Genson Depew, president general of the Sons of the American Revolution, and Mrs. Boyce Picklen, Jr., national president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Reports in Afternoon.

The afternoon session will be given over to the reports of national officers. The session at 2:15 p. m. in the auditorium will be preceded by a concert by the United States Marine Band Orchestra. The invocation then will be offered by Bishop Philip Cook, of Delaware, after which "The Star-Spangled Banner" will be sung by Charlotte Ryan, of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

4 Carried to Safety In Tourist Camp Fire

Woman, Girls and Man on Sick Bed Rescued as Spectacular Blaze in Potomac Park Destroys Bungalows and Attracts Crowd.

Thrilling rescues were effected by carrying to safety four persons clad in night clothes last night when fire destroyed two bungalows and partially destroyed four others in the Washington Tourist Camp in Potomac Park.

Maj. William Critchey, banker, of 90 Pierpont avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., carried his wife and two daughters, dressed only in their night clothes, to safety as the bungalows they occupied caught fire. He himself escaped in pajamas.

William Sloan, of River Forest, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, who was confined to his bed in bungalow No. 17, was carried to safety by unidentified rescuers as the flames from the cottage next door were licking at the walls of his cottage.

The blaze that consumed two of the bungalows is said to have started in No. 20, apparently from an oil stove left burning by the occupants. It is thought the stove exploded, so rapid was the spread of the flames, illuminating the sky in that vicinity within a few minutes.

The glare attracted thousands of automobilists to the vicinity and fire apparatus had to race to beat the congestion of traffic that resulted from automobiles blocking roads nearby.

"I was sitting in my bungalow," Maj. Critchey said, "listening to the radio. My wife and daughters had retired and were asleep. All of a sudden the lights went out, the radio choked out and somebody screamed. I looked out and saw several bungalows, including my own, on fire.

"I carried my wife and children to safety, but we lost all of our clothes and possessions. However, I saved my car, which was between two of the houses," he said, as one of the attendants at the camp bandaged his right hand. It was cut across the palm. He had locked his car and had lost the keys when the spread of the flames, illuminating the sky in that vicinity within a few minutes.

Policeman Finds Victim Dazed and Holds Him as Intoxicated.

INVESTIGATION HELD BY WHALEN AND AIDS

Attorney of the Alleged Killer Declares That Assault Was "Gentlemanly Act."

New York, April 14 (U.P.).—Wealth, middle-aged chivalry, a woman disputed and cocktails entered today into the mysterious death Thursday of Arthur M. Smith, elderly Cleveland manufacturer, as the police held Samuel E. Bell, white-haired oil man and former Pennsylvania legislator, for arraignment in homicide court Tuesday.

Mrs. Robert L. Brown, a socially prominent matron of Lexington, Ky., was named as the innocent cause of a clash between the dead Clevelander and the accused Bell.

The early morning scene preceding the finding of the mortally hurt Smith, dazed from a skull fracture, beneath the canopy of the ultraexclusive Hotel Marguery in Park avenue, was reconstructed by the police from several sources.

Argument After Leaving.

Two dignified elderly men and a richly gownned woman left the hotel and the woman entered a taxi. Both men started to enter, then faced each other. There was a moment's swift conversation, according to the accounts, an appeal to the occupant of the cab and one of the middle-aged men either struck or pushed the other. He then entered the vehicle and was driven hurriedly away.

Bell denied through his attorney today that he had done more than give Smith a "vigorous push." The lawyer, Theodore F. Van Dorn, described Bell's conduct as that of "a perfect gentleman."

Mrs. Brown and the two men had been guests at the apartment of Mrs. Robert W. Schuette, wife of a former Rolls-Royce official, now out of the city. Bell had been in the city several days attending to his business interests, and earlier in the evening had dined with Mrs. Brown at the Hotel Plaza. They were old friends, according to Attorney Van Dorn.

Liquor Served at Party.

Van Dorn said that a small quantity of liquor was served by Mrs. Schuette to her guests and that during the evening Smith had been attentive to Mrs. Brown. At 2 a. m. the party continued on page 4, COLUMN 1.

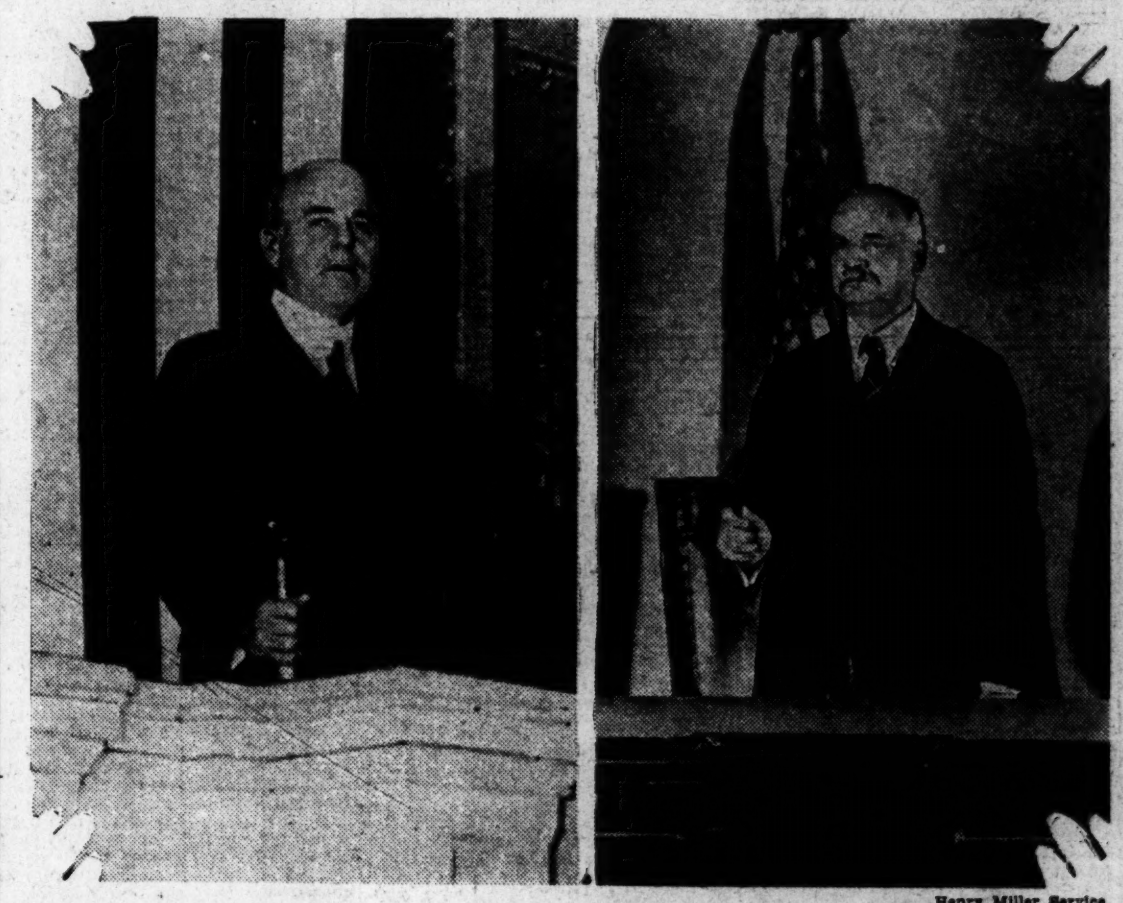

4 Drown as Auto Plunges Into River

Car, Left in Reverse Gear, Backs When Started; Two Women Missing.

Dixon, Ill., April 14 (A.P.).—Four persons are believed to have been drowned here this morning when their automobile, which was parked in reverse gear, backed up when started and plunged into the swollen Rock River.

Two men were known to have been in the car at the time of the accident, and two women seen with the men shortly before they got in the car are missing today.

ALMAZAN IN JUAREZ; REBEL LEADERS QUIT

Four Generals in U. S.; Three Dismissed by Escobar; Fight Near Naco.

FEDERALS MOVE IN WEST

Juarez, Mexico, April 14 (A.P.).—Three trains of Mexican federal soldiers from Chihuahua City, arrived in Juarez this afternoon. The first train, loaded with infantrymen, arrived in this border city at 4:30 p. m., and the second, a cavalry train, reached here at 4:35.

Gen. Juan Almazan, division commander of the Mexican federal army in the State of Chihuahua, arrived on a third troop train at 5 p. m.

Further dissension and dissatisfaction among Mexican rebel generals was reported today around Agua Prieta, Sonora, where concentration of insurgent forces continued. Three generals were said to have been dismissed by the rebel generalissimo J. G. Escobar, for insubordination. The names of the officers reported discharged were not learned.

Meanwhile, at least four rebel generals, Raul Madero, Antonio I. Villarreal, Cesario Castro and Francisco Manzo, were known to have entered the United States because of their objections to Escobar's leadership. The first three were in El Paso, Tex., across the border from here.

Gen. Almazan said tonight that he would leave for Sonora in pursuit of the rebels "soon." A work train carrying ties and rails is to leave tomorrow morning on the Mexican Northwestern Railroad to repair tracks the rebels destroyed in their retreat westward. Almazan declared he did not expect any opposition until he reaches Pulpito Pass, through which insurgents passed on their way into Sonora.

Naco, Sonora, April 14 (A.P.).—Three hundred rebel cavalrymen arrived in Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, Ariz., today without being detected by federal airplane scouts of the Naco garrison. They were part of the army of Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, left behind when Escobar fled from Chihuahua by air plane last Tuesday.

Two federal planes, loaded with bombs, reconnoitered over Pulpito Pass, 70 miles east of here, this morning and returned to report that no rebel troops were in the vicinity. Bombs intended for the Chihuahua soldiers, had they been found, were dropped on Gen. Ramon Yucupio's camp at La Morita. Yucupio's men scattered as the explosives fell. There were no reports of casualties.

Gen. Yucupio, with 1,000 men, is guarding Naco to keep the federal garrison from leaving.

Queen Mary Suffers Chill; King Improves

Bognor, Sussex, England, April 14 (A.P.).—Queen Mary was confined to Craigwell House today with a slight chill and was unable to attend divine services at the South Bersted Parish, where a large crowd awaited her arrival. Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson, King George's physicians, announced the queen's condition was in no wise serious.

The two physicians at the same time issued the following bulletin bearing on the condition of the king: "His majesty continues to make satisfactory progress and the rheumatism in the right shoulder is yielding to treatment."

WETS TO BE HEARD ON DRY AMENDMENT

Hoover Agrees to Let Board on Law Enforcement Study Proposals.

BASE OF HOPE IS FLIMSY

BY CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover's forthcoming law-enforcement commission will, after all, apparently be permitted to study the question of the enforceability of the eighteenth amendment.

At least, the way for such a study has been opened by a carefully guarded statement, piled out of the White House by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and made public yesterday.

The association, in a letter signed by Henry H. Curran, president; William H. Stayton, chairman of the board of directors, and Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the executive committee, wrote Mr. Hoover that it was convinced that the real reason prohibition is not enforced is that it is not supported by the President's commission.

3 MARINE AVIATORS DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Second Lieutenant and Two Aids Are Killed Over Nicaraguan Area.

WERE ON MAPPING FLIGHT

Managua, Nicaragua, April 14 (A.P.).—A second lieutenant and two noncommissioned Marine officers were killed yesterday afternoon in an airplane crash at Lake Nicaragua, near San Carlos. They were:

Second Lieut. James Beaty McHugh, Clemson College, S. C.

Sgt. Byron C. Piner, Roanoke, Va. Corp. Otto Miller, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The men were engaged in making a mosaic map of the proposed Nicaragua Canal when their plane, a Marine amphibian type OL-8, crashed. The cause of the accident was not learned by Marine headquarters. Maj. Luis M. Bourne, commander of the aviation squadron, left this morning for San Carlos to obtain the details.

The bodies of the victims were placed on a lake steamer for Granada where they will be transferred to a train for Managua and subsequent transportation to the United States.

The widow of Lieut. McHugh received news of the accident at Managua. Marine records list the next kin of Corp. Miller as Mrs. Helen Miller, Pittsburgh. The next kin of Sgt. Piner is recorded as Mrs. N. L. Piner, Roanoke, Va.

Lieut. McHugh was piloting the machine, while Sgt. Piner was the photographer. McHugh enjoyed an excellent reputation as an all-round pilot and was highly esteemed by his fellow officers as a Marine combat man.

The three were attached to the Second Marine Brigade.

Senate Measure Still Is Unwritten on the Eve of Convening.

$500,000,000 ASKED IN COMPLETED PLAN

Jones and Nelson Vote Against It, Demanding Debenture Clause.

LEGISLATORS' WORK TO START WEDNESDAY

Preliminaries to Occupy First Two Days; 77 New Members Take Oath.

(Associated Press.)

The final draft of the new farm bill was finished by the House agriculture committee yesterday, 34 hours before the time for Congress to convene in special session in an effort to remedy the ills of the farmer.

The completion of the bill, and its approval by the committee by a vote of 19 to 2, made it certain that the House would have a definite legislative proposal before it at the bang of the opening gavel.

But the Senate committee yet has to approve a measure. It will meet today to vote first upon the export debenture plan, already rejected by the House committee, and then upon the McNary bill, the fundamental principles of which are similar to the House measure.

The new House farm bill would set up a Federal board with a $500,000,000 revolving fund to promote the effective marketing of agricultural products.

Has Only Minor Changes.

The measure, described by members of the committee as being in accord with the views of President Hoover, was changed only in minor aspects from the form in which the subcommittee drew the original draft. The two dissenting votes in committee were those of Representative Jones, of Texas, and Nelson, of Missouri, both Democrats.

Both battled Saturday to write the debenture plan into the legislation.

Approval of the measure was given by the full committee after more than three hours of deliberation in a Sunday session. The committee cleared the way for this action late Saturday by rejecting both the export debenture plan and the equalization fee.

The farm board was described by members of the committee as "the most powerful marketing board ever set up in the history of the world." It would have five members with a chairman and the Secretary of Agriculture as an ex-officio member. They would be chosen by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Except for the chairman, whose salary would be fixed by the Chief executive, the members would receive $12,000 yearly. They would serve two, four, and the fifth, six years. Their successors would be chosen for six years.

Former Consul Sees Rector On Funeral Plans, Then Dies

Percival Gassett, in Good Health, Reminds the Rev. Mr. Thompson of Promise Only Few Hours Before He Is Stricken.

Last Friday afternoon Percival Gassett, former consul to Madrid, Spain, apparently in the best of health, called on his old friend, the Rev. Enoch M. Thompson, rector of the Church of the Nativity and former rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, and emphatically reminded the minister that he was to officiate at his funeral.

Shortly after leaving the minister, Mr. Gassett was stricken with heart disease and died Saturday morning at 8 o'clock at Emergency Hospital. Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock funeral services will be held at St. Paul's and Mr. Thompson, in accordance with his pledge, will officiate.

"Mr. Gassett appeared to be in the best of health when he called on me last Friday," Mr. Thompson said last night. "He seemed to have a premonition of death, beginning to talk about his funeral as soon as greetings were over."

TORNADOES' DAMAGE REACHES $1,500,000

Red Cross Needs $100,000 to Aid the Stricken Area in Arkansas.

THOUSANDS DESTITUTE

Little Rock, Ark., April 14 (A.P.).—With emergency relief work completed and permanent rehabilitation the next step, Red Cross workers today continued a survey of the north central Arkansas communities stricken Wednesday night by "twister" tornadoes, which took a toll of 50 lives, injured hundreds and left more than 1,000 homeless and destitute. Property damage was estimated by Red Cross officials to run between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

Headquarters for relief and rehabilitation work by the Red Cross have been established at Newport under the direction of Albert Evans, disaster relief director for the Midwest. Mr. Evans estimated it would require from six to eight weeks to give the refugees their start in life again. His assistants are scattered in the stricken areas of Gulton, Parkin and Swifton, within a 100-mile radius of Newport. Swifton, affected the worst, has buried its 28 dead and has 21 injured in a Newport hospital. The Red Cross has distributed tents, coats and other supplies on a family basis over the stricken communities of Sneed and Possum Trot, about 6 miles north of Swifton, and will direct the work of rebuilding frame farmhouses. Seventy-five tents have been erected over this region.

At Gulton, where 5 were killed and 40 injured, a tented city has been built and several hundred refugees are being cared for by the Red Cross. Members of the Arkansas National Guard at Batesville were in charge of the community kitchen. Gulton, a mining community, was completely destroyed. The only thing left standing there was the vault of the bank. A large number of the injured taken to Batesville hospitals were dismissed today.

In the other stricken areas, tents were being used by families near the sites of their wrecked homes.

The Red Cross has asked for an emergency fund of $100,000 to carry on its work in the devastated regions and Gov. Harvey Parnell has broadcast an appeal for funds.

Loss of Life Caused By Floods in Russia

Moscow, April 14 (U.P.).—A large death toll in spring floods in various parts of Russia was reported today. Great damage and some loss of life was caused when the Dnieper, Don and other rivers overflowed. Petrovsk, Pavlovsk and other Dnieper towns were inundated. Seven persons were drowned in floods along the Kubler River, in the northern Caucasus.

Die as Mine Tunnel Roof Falls.—Manselville, France, April 14 (U.P.).—Three persons were killed and another gravely injured when the roof of a coal mine tunnel near Gardanne crumbled and fell.

60 to 70 Are Left Homeless, 4 Injured in Texas Tornado

Woman's Laced Shoes Are Torn From Her Feet as She Prepares Breakfast at Smithville; Seven Homes Are Wrecked by Force of Wind.

Austin, Tex., April 14 (A.P.).—Striking swiftly and without warning, a tornado of miniature proportions demolished seven homes at Smithville, 45 miles southeast of here, early today and injured four members of a family whose residence was lifted from its foundation and hurled a twisted mass into a nearby street. Between 60 and 70 persons were made homeless. Mrs. Leo Austin, preparing breakfast when the wind blew up, was carried 100 feet from the wreckage of her house and was severely cut and bruised. The wind almost dislodged the woman. Her husband received a wrenched back and their two children, Leo 9, and Dorothy 4, were slightly bruised.

New Wave Lengths Set For European Stations

Prague, Czechoslovakia, April 14 (A.P.).—Entirely new wave lengths for almost all the European broadcasting stations and radio telegraph companies were adopted yesterday by the International Radio Conference. The new wave lengths differ considerably from those recommended by the recent International Radio Conference at Brussels. Delegates expressed confidence that they would help greatly to relieve the present chaotic condition of Europe on the air. Thirty-six countries, including Soviet Russia, have sent representatives to the Prague congress.

Rebellion bottled up if possible. The bulk of the rebel forces have been sent to the west coast to meet the advancing Calles' army. Yucucio has divided his guarding forces evenly between La Morita, in the hills southeast of Naco, and Agua Prieta.

Agua Prieta, Sonora, Mexico, April 14 (A.P.).—Gen. Ramon Yucucio, rebel commanding officer of the forces between Naco, Sonora, since Gen. Pantoja departed for the west coast, said today his band of 600 Mayo and Yaqui Indians would remain in the hills near the federal-held city indefinitely. The commander came here from his headquarters last night and returned to camp today, following telegraphic communication with Gen. Francisco Borquez at Nogales, rebel headquarters.

Gen. Yucucio declined to comment on the mission here, but said he would remain a rebel in spite of the defection of officers and soldiers from the insurgent cause. Gen. Pantoja and Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar, rebel generalissimo, departed from their Cananea headquarters with a body of troops for Guaymas, Sonora, Yucucio said. Federal soldiers near San Blas and had driven them back 6 kilometers in a sharp conflict.

No information was available as to the casualties on either side.

Kidnaped American Freed

El Paso, Tex., April 14 (A.P.).—Al Coenen, young El Pasoan, who was kidnapped by Mexican rebels because of his knowledge of airplanes, was freed today. He was captured by the rebels near Juarez last Tuesday. After the train reached Casas Grandes, in western Chihuahua, Coenen declared, he worked for three days in a wrecked rebel airplane.

Finally, through the assistance of an American pilot in the service of the rebels, Coenen escaped. He paid $125 in cash to his guard and rode into Douglas, Ariz., in an automobile from which he was freed.

Mrs. Austin said that her laced shoes were torn from her feet as she prepared breakfast when the wind blew up. She was carried 100 feet from the wreckage of her house and was severely cut and bruised.

2 Killed and 4 Hurt In Family Quarrel

Fatal Battle Is Begun in Row Over Custody of Children.

North Platte, Nebr., April (A.P.).—Charles Moore and his son Frank, of Dunning, Nebr., are dead and O. A. Ridenour of Sutherland, and three sons of the latter were wounded in the arms as the result of a family quarrel last night.

The shooting was the culmination of a divorce action started last August by Mrs. Frank Moore, a daughter of Ridenour. The action was to have been heard this coming week. Mrs. Moore had the custody of the three children.

The elder Moore, his son and a former hired girl in the Moore family went to the Ridenour home last night with the intention, it was said, of obtaining possession of the children.

An argument ensued and when the shooting started two were dead and four wounded. Sheriff Salisbury was summoned and found the two Moores dead in the Ridenour front yard. An inquest has been called for Monday afternoon.

Death Try to Halt Marriage Charged

Brother, Jailed, Is Accused of Attempting to Kill Sister.

New York, April 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Tessie Pland became Mrs. Anthony di Sanzo tonight in spite of an alleged attempt of her brother Nicholas to asphyxiate her to prevent the marriage. Nicholas was locked in the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, charged with felonious assault, attempted suicide and violation of the Sullivan law.

Violently opposed to his sister's marriage, Nicholas argued long and fruitlessly with her Saturday night, her wedding eve, trying to dissuade her. Finally he went to bed, muttering vague threats, Tessie said.

According to police, Nicholas arose before daylight, took a gas heater in the room occupied by Tessie and another sister, Frances. The girls might have died all the while the heater was on, but Nicholas' exit from the apartment.

The airplane Canberra, first to locate the Southern Cross, was ordered today to proceed to Alice Springs to assist other planes in searching for the missing fliers.

COLONIAL AIRWAYS CONTROL MAY PASS

Aviation Corporation Opens Negotiations to Gain Stock Majority.

CHANGE IN EMBRY-RIDDLE

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—Control of the Colonial Airways System, holders of the original Government air mail contracts, is expected to pass shortly to the Aviation Corporation, it was made known today by Graham B. Grover, president of Aviation Corporation.

He said a contract embodying exchange of stock has been made with a committee of Colonial stockholders and that completion of the transaction was contingent upon the Aviation Corporation acquiring not less than 51 per cent of the stock of the Colonial Airways Corporation, which controls three Colonial operating companies. These are Colonial Air Transport, Inc., Colonial Western Airways, Inc., and Canadian Colonial Airways, Inc. The system embraces a mail and passenger service between New York and Boston, New York and Montreal and Albany and Cleveland.

Aviation Corporation, a $200,000,000 holding and development company, recently acquired control of the Fairchild Aviation Corporation, which now carries mail, express and passengers from Chicago to Cincinnati by way of Indianapolis, plans extensive expansion of its operations, the announcement said.

The announcement said the Embury-Riddle Co. will be taken over by the Embury-Riddle Aviation Corporation, which will file a charter of incorporation with the secretary of state of Delaware tomorrow. The Embury-Riddle Aviation Corporation, which now carries mail, express and passengers from Chicago to Cincinnati by way of Indianapolis, plans extensive expansion of its operations, the announcement said.

It plans to establish flight training centers in cities in Ohio, Kentucky and neighboring States. One of these projects, it was announced, is the organization in Cincinnati of an air university to specialize in advanced commercial flying instruction.

5 Killed, Locomotive Derailed in Auto Crash

Jolet, Ill., April 14 (A.P.).—Five persons were killed tonight when their automobile was struck at Jolet, Ill., by a Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific passenger train bound for Chicago. The locomotive was derailed and traffic on the line was still held up shortly before midnight.

Mokens is about half way between Jolet and Chicago, and the wreckage was sent from here to bring the victims back.

Capitol of Louisiana Threatened by Fire

Baton Rouge, La., April 14 (A.P.).—The State capitol was threatened by fire tonight. Papers in the basement of the building were found blazing by the night watchman.

The fire was extinguished by the watchman with no loss to the building. The records lost were compilations of Confederate veterans' statistics.

Helen Filkey, Olympic Star, Chicagoan's Bride

Waukegan, Ill., April 14 (A.P.).—Miss Helen Filkey, 21 years old, women's all-around Olympic champion, and Beach Van Heusen Wines, 22 years old, were married by a justice of the peace here last night. The couple, both of Chicago, left immediately by motor for Lake Geneva, Wis., where they will spend their honeymoon.

At the age of 16, Miss Filkey held seven world's records and one American record. They included the 50 and 75 yard dashes indoors, the 75-yard dash outdoors, 45 and 75 yard low hurdles indoors, and 60-yard low and high hurdles outdoors. Her time of 11.9-10 seconds for the 100-yard dash was accepted as an American record.

HERRICK BY HIS HOME CITY

Body Lies in State in Cathedral as Throngs Pass Beside Envoy's Bier.

BURIAL SERVICES TODAY

Cleveland, Ohio, April 14 (A.P.).—The body of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, was returned to his fellow townsmen today. Disappeared with the grief of two nations, the coffin was taken from a special train from New York by his friends and placed in Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, to receive in burial tomorrow the simple services which mark the passing of a plain citizen.

It was the end of the long journey from Paris and New York, where the French and American Governments accorded him the recognition of a beloved friend and distinguished servant. Cleveland, knowing intimately of his early struggles, gathered to mourn him quietly as a son.

The train arrived from New York early this morning at the 105th Street Station. Five thousand persons stood about in the bright, cold sunshine to pay their respects to the Ohio farm boy who made his first appearance in public life nearly half a century ago as a Cleveland councilman.

Old Friends Present.

With the body were the ambassador's son and daughter, Mrs. Myron T. Herrick, Jr.; Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and others whose intimate association with the diplomat made them feel the personal influence over those who accompanied him to his last rites.

There was no official delegation at the station, and only the escort of cavalry and police lent the formal recognition of government to the reception. Those who met at the station were in banking and local public life who had known the ambassador since his early days as a councilman in law and business. These came as individuals mourning a personal loss.

As the train drew into the station Field Artillerymen of the Ohio National Guard fired the ambassadorial salute of nineteen guns and then Mr. Farnely Herrick and his family, together with Col. Lindbergh and friends of the ambassador who stood at the station, gathered in the car where the coffin lay to pay tribute before the body was taken to the cathedral.

Guardsmen Carry Coffin.

When they had retired twelve pallbearers chosen from Ohio National Guard units lifted the coffin as the special guard which accompanied the body from New York. The Ohio National Guard units on either side. It was covered with the American flag. There were no flowers.

In the station yard two squadrons of the 11th Cavalry flashed their sabres upward in salute as the body was placed in the cathedral. The Ohio National Guard units followed by the Cavalry and the hearse on the journey to the cathedral, 5 miles away at Euclid avenue and Twenty-second street. The crowd which lined the sidewalks and the windows of nearby buildings uncovered as the procession passed.

After the body had left, Col. Lindbergh, who sounded the body in the recognition given the ambassador, left in a waiting automobile for the Herrick estate in "Bunting Valley" on the edge of the Cleveland Forest. He paid their tribute to the ambassador gathered near his automobile, and a police guard which accompanied him from the train was reinforced by motorcycle policemen, who escorted him from the station.

Thousands Pass Bier.

Farmly Herrick, his family and his friends, then went to the cathedral, where they received the body in a small chapel as thousands bowed in the street. The coffin rested under police guard until it was placed in the main aisle of the cathedral at 1 o'clock this afternoon, to remain unopened while thousands passed to express their grief.

The body was removed to the chapel at 8 o'clock, when the doors of the cathedral were closed.

The funeral will be at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The services of the Episcopal Church will be read in accordance with the request of the ambassador and his family, that the last rites be as plain as possible.

Bishop William A. Leonard, of the Cleveland Episcopal Diocese, will officiate, with Bishop Coadjutor Warren L. Rogers and Dean Francis S. Wally assisting. The service requires about 25 minutes.

Police and Ohio National Guardsmen again will form an escort for the coffin as the cortege moves from the cathedral to the burial place in Lake View Cemetery. The final services will be private.

President Hoover will be represented at the funeral by Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, of Toledo, who is expected tomorrow morning. Other official representatives from Washington include William R. Castle, Jr., of the Department of State, and Brig. Gen. D. R. Nolan, of the War Department. They, too, are expected tomorrow morning with Count de Serres, counselor of the French Embassy and representative of the French government.

Gov. Cooper Arrives.

Arriving tonight, Gov. Myers Y. Cooper and his staff carried Ohio's official respects to the bier of the State's former governor. They were met by triumphs here and participated with Marcus Hanna and William McKinley, in some of the most historic political battles of Ohio's history.

No flowers were accepted for the services today and tomorrow except a wreath sent by President Hoover and another by Gov. Cooper, and a floral decoration sent by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

The city showed its grief in the unobtrusive way which the diplomat had asked for his final recognition. Tomorrow morning, at the hour the funeral begins, the city will fall into silence for five minutes in tribute to his memory. Streets today were lined with flags at half-staff, flying from black crepe from the masthead. The City Hall, railroad station and other buildings were heavily draped in black. Traffic was rerouted around the station, the cathedral, and the route to the cemetery to make as quiet as possible the last rites for the famous Ohioan.

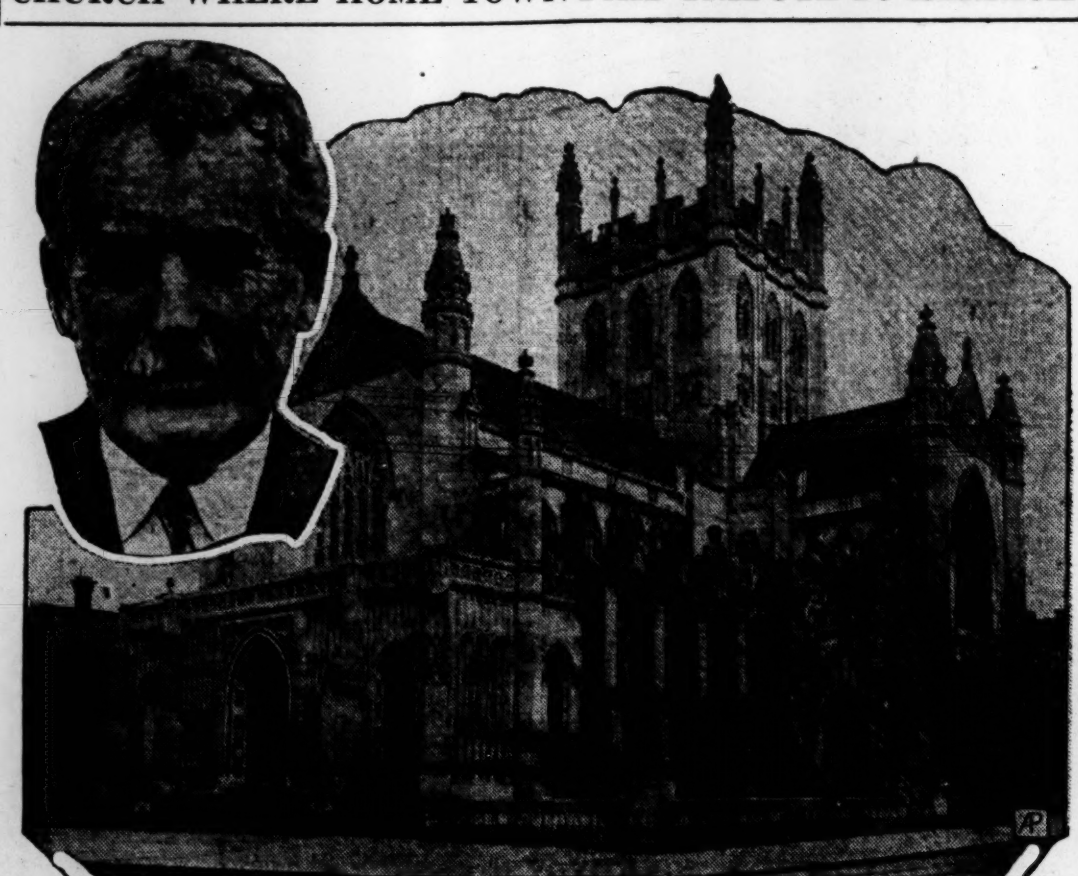

Simple Bailey Funeral Insisted On by Family

Dallas, Tex., April 14 (A.P.).—The body of former United States Senator Joseph Bailey, Texas warrior and once leader of the Democratic party, was viewed by hundreds of friends and by former colleagues as it lay in state here today at the home of his son, Joseph W. Bailey, Jr.

The body was brought here last night from Sherman, where Mr. Bailey died suddenly yesterday while in the midst of a lawsuit. The room in which the coffin lay was banked high with flowers.

The veteran spouse of Jefferson passed away as often he had expressed his desire, "in harness." A request of friends that the body be taken to Austin, the State capital, to lie in state there before final services at Gainesville, the old Bailey home, was denied by relatives.

Sheehan Services To Be Tomorrow

Washington Man Died Last Saturday at His Home Here.

Funeral services for John P. Sheehan, who died Saturday, will be held at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from his residence, 1869 Park road northwest. Services will follow at Sacred Heart Church, The Washington Lodge of Elks, of which Mr. Sheehan was a member, will attend the funeral.

Mr. Sheehan was born in Washington and had spent his entire life here. Until the advent of prohibition here he was proprietor of a saloon at North Capitol and G streets. Mr. Sheehan was active in Catholic charities.

He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Sarah Sheehan; two daughters, Miss Helen Sheehan and Mrs. Margaret Broussard, the latter of New Orleans, and two sisters, Miss Margaret Sheehan and Miss Mary Sheehan.

UNITES FOR MRS. ZANTZINGER

Services Will Take Place This Afternoon at Upper Marlboro.

Mrs. Shelley Danglefield Chew Zantzinger, the youngest daughter of the late Judge Richard B. Chew, of Upper Marlboro, Md., died Saturday at her residence at 3307 R street northwest.

Mrs. Zantzinger's former home was at Hyattsville, Md. She was the widow of Otway B. Zantzinger. She is survived by the following children: Richard C. Otway B. Franklin D. and Marie Louise Zantzinger; also by a brother, B. Chew Zantzinger, who died Saturday at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Holy Trinity Church, Upper Marlboro.

SERVICES FOR E. L. HARVEY

Rites Will Be Held in Calvary Methodist Church This Afternoon.

Funeral services for Evert L. Harvey, a resident of Washington for 40 years, who died Friday in Brooklyn, N. Y., will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church. Burial will be at Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Harvey was a member of the District bar for a number of years. He also was widely known in local church circles, having for a long period been superintendent of the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday School. He was a member of the board of stewards of that church at the time President McKinley was a member of the congregation.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Maude Clark Harvey, and two sons, George L. Harvey and William C. Harvey, both of New York City.

YOUR BOY—YOUR GIRL

INDEPENDENT YOUTH.

LET'S see, did we ever hear the remark: "Youth is so independent." "Youth is so independent," especially when coming from the lips of the young people.

Independence—that's a big word. Men have died and women have gone to court to get it. Authors and artists have lived in poverty to maintain it. Public servants have lost their jobs because of it.

Around the home youth is often mighty independent, except when it needs an extra allowance.

But outside of home youth is often very dependent and is miles away from that motto of the independent being: "How happy is he born and taught, That serveth not another's will."

Young people express very largely the psychology of the mass and not the psychology of the individual. They read Sinclair's "Babbitt" and laugh at the oldsters, but I miss my guess if we do not find more Babbitts in college and high school than we find at any dozen nondescript lunch clubs.

Here's a little gossip about college styles to prove the point. Lumber jacket sweaters are discarded, socks have gone up and the popularity of baggy trousers is waning. To look college-wise and high school, to get it is quite the style.

Heavy dates are being avoided and it is considered quite a form to feed her on a sandwich. Patronizing artistic eating joints is giving way to less on the more modest cafe. New slang terms have been invented by the college Babbitts. "Racket," "hoopie," "whoopee," "lamb's lettuce," "frosting on the cake."

Automobiles must either be classy or dilapidated. The worse they look the better they are. Each is christened "Pericles Push," "Fanny's Polly," "Butter Tub." One I saw carried the legend, "On you've heard this one stop me." On the back were the words, "U. S. Past Male."

Silly, isn't it? We never played Babbitt when we were young. No, siree! I've just dug up a copy of "Freshman Laws" of Yale College. The publication date is unknown to me. It is a very old sheet because the letter S looks like an F and pipe is spelled pyre and cigars was spelled cegars. I'll quote a few of the Babbitt laws of that distant day:

"Freshmen are forbidden to wear their hats within eight rods of a professor."

"No freshman shall walk with a cane without being completely dressed."

"A freshman shall not play with his clothing, so broke the glass of the door to get in and drive it off."

The major procured blankets for his wife and children and himself until the excitement subsided and kept his family in his large limousine, in which they were touring to Florida to spend the spring.

Sloman and his friend, Shirley A. Campbell, of 5459 Dorchester avenue, Chicago, Ill., who were making a tour of Eastern States in a small sedan, were talking in their cottage when they heard the call of "Pire!" While Sloman was being carried to safety on his mattress, Campbell managed to save practically all their personal effects and load them in the sedan.

The blaze was first discovered by Francis W. Hicks, of Pinehurst, N. C., occupant of Cottage No. 37. He had been in the recreation hall, he said, and was passing Cottage No. 20, when he noticed a flickering light there. He walked up to a window and looked inside, where he saw flames leaping 6 feet into the air over a blazing oil heater. No one was inside.

Hicks broke open the door, and, after seeing that he could not check the flames, turned and ran to the recreation hall. He summoned Eugene Layfield, an employee of the camp, and together they returned with fire extinguishers, which proved ineffective. Layfield returned to the recreation hall and telephoned the Fire Department, while Hicks continued to employ the fire extinguishers and hopped back to his automobile to safety from his parking place next to No. 20.

Engine Company No. 13, and Truck Company No. 3, responded to the call. When Lieut. S. E. Colvin arrived and saw the fire, he telephoned in a second call for equipment, which brought out No. 16 Engine Company and Center Battalion Chief L. L. Wooland. Maj. Henry L. Pratt, superintendent of police, also on hand, the patrol of the Fourth Police Precinct was also called out.

Two sisters, Adelaide C. Webster and Jessie R. Webster, of Buffalo, N. Y., occupants of Cottage No. 25, were routed from their cottage by the fire. They managed to salvage the greater part of their belongings.

J. D. and E. R. Williams, of Cleveland, Ohio, were said to have been the occupants of No. 20, where the first fire was started. It was started by the management that an oil stove was burning in their bungalow when they left the premises earlier in the night. They had not returned when the blaze was extinguished.

Mr. Ingles, of Portland, Me., occupied No. 22, next door. That bungalow was destroyed.

Many tourists, occupying bungalows in the vicinity of the fire, hastily dressed and carried their belongings to their cars and sat ready for flight in case the fire spread.

Albert Levering Dies in New York

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—Albert Levering, illustrator and painter, died of heart disease today at his apartment in the Hotel Chelsea.

Mr. Levering was 60 years old and had been ill for several weeks. Levering's wife, the former Frances Jewell, of Bloomfield, N. J., whom he married in 1905, was with him when he collapsed as he was seated in a chair.

Mr. Levering, the son of Levi Lemuel Levering, an architect, was born at Hope, Ind., was educated in the Columbus, Ind., High School and studied architecture with his father. He also studied drawing in New York City, and in practical architecture for several years in San Antonio, Tex., and then became a newspaper artist.

In addition to his brother, Mr. Thornton is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Leland H. Connors.

HOOPER WILL GRANT HEARING FOR WETS

Richey, who, among other things, is Mr. Hoover's correspondence secretary, replied:

"Your letter of April 5 has been received and brought to the attention of the President. He wishes me to say that the opportunity will be given for presentation of any facts which bear upon the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment or any other of our laws."

This would seem to let the association with its view in, and, once such an argument is presented to the commission, there is no telling where it may lead to.

Admittedly, it is a very thin thread upon which the wets might hang their hopes. The White House statement looks particularly thin for them when the President's inaugural language is recalled. The association's letter to him did recall it.

"I propose to appoint a national commission for a searching investigation of the whole structure of our Federal Government, and to make such recommendations as may be found desirable."

There is no suggestion here that the commission will be charged with determining whether the prohibition laws are enforceable. Under this language it would be charged only with improving methods of enforcing them. But the association in its letter to the President said that for ten years and "especially during the last calendar year, the association has made a careful study of the effect of the eighteenth amendment and the Federal enforcement laws upon the social, moral and economic life of our people and their relations to the effective functioning of the Federal courts, and we have reached certain definite conclusions."

"We are satisfied that the true cause of the failure of the Government to enforce the so-called Volstead law is to be found in the failure of the eighteenth amendment itself and not altogether in a faulty or obsolete judicial system, and we desire to present before your impartial commission evidence to this effect in accordance with your statement, above quoted, specifying comprehensively that this commission is to investigate the 'cause of abuse.'"

"Repugnance" to "Best Citizens."

"We believe that it is the repugnance of the eighteenth amendment to the spirit of the Constitution of the United States that makes it so large a body of our best citizens; that its enforcement has become impossible without recourse to procedure and practices which are shocking to most right-minded men, contrary to the traditions of our race and in actual violation of the spirit if not of the letter of the Constitution itself."

Well, Mr. Hoover has authorized his secretary to tell the association that it may present that view to the commission whenever it is set up. Supposing the commission were to agree with it?

But whether there is any real comfort in this for the wets or not, it is the wettest statement that Mr. Hoover has ever made, or, rather, that has ever been made authoritatively in his behalf.

Search of Lake Falls To Reveal Lost Plane

Brie, Pa., April 14 (A.P.).—Reports that a flaming airplane had fallen into Lake Erie near here late last night were given no credence by officials today following an investigation. Thorough search failed to reveal any trace of the plane. No flinders from this region were reported missing.

Three persons reported seeing a flaming craft hurried out of the sky last night but the opinion was expressed today that they saw what was probably a falling star or meteor.

Heart Attack Is Fatal to the Illustrator and Painter, Aged 60 Years.

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—Albert Levering, illustrator and painter, died of heart disease today at his apartment in the Hotel Chelsea.

Mr. Levering was 60 years old and had been ill for several weeks. Levering's wife, the former Frances Jewell, of Bloomfield, N. J., whom he married in 1905, was with him when he collapsed as he was seated in a chair.

Mr. Levering, the son of Levi Lemuel Levering, an architect, was born at Hope, Ind., was educated in the Columbus, Ind., High School and studied architecture with his father. He also studied drawing in New York City, and in practical architecture for several years in San Antonio, Tex., and then became a newspaper artist.

DRY LEAGUE LEADER CHARGES HYPOCRISY

Says Attack by Wet Forces on Seizures Without Warrants Are Insincere.

I'M ALONE CASE IS TOPIC

Ithaca, N. Y., April 14 (U.P.).—Charging that the present "wave of wet publicity" is an organized campaign of hypocrisy, Orville S. Poland, head of the legal department of the Antislavery League of New York, today called upon "real lovers of civil liberty" to "rally to the cause of labor."

"If the wet protagonists of civil liberty are sincere," Poland said in a speech at the First Presbyterian Church, "why do they single out imaginary violations and pass by real violations of civil rights? How can they remain silent when, during the last year, 534 legal meetings were illegally broken up by the police and 544 official restrictions of free speech instituted?"

"How can they ignore the entry by the police of New Bedford upon private property to arrest illegally the workers of that city who were legally convened? How can they contain themselves in the face of the brutality, bloodshed and worse of the part of the coal and iron police in Pennsylvania?"

Cites New Orleans Raid.

Poland also referred in scathing terms to the time "when the military force of Louisiana, last February, entered the restaurants of the City of New Orleans and, without warrant or excuse, seized more than 100 men and women and stripped and searched them for evidence of gambling, which was not found."

The prohibition forces, he said, in defending the sinking of the schooner, "I'm alone and other recent so-called outrages by enforcers of the law, have done nothing so flagrant, and yet a great deal to do is made about them."

"Every endeavor," charged Poland, "is made to ignore unheard of and perhaps nonexistent technicalities in practice of the law. A fishing vessel is overhauled by a Coast Guard vessel and compelled to stop under penalty of seizure of the vessel and the part of the Government, because when the Coast Guard got alongside there was no liquor aboard and, incidentally, neither was there any fish, nor fishing tackle."

Doubts Schooner Fishing Vessel.

"Are there any so unsophisticated as to believe that such a vessel was in fact a fishing vessel?"

"Unfortunately," added Poland, "criminals and their associates and officers themselves are sometimes killed when they are in the performance of their duties, are met with armed resistance. Yet, why should these unfortunate cases occasion so much comment when, within the past year, approximately three times as many innocent bystanders have been killed by the police in the needless use of or accidental discharge of firearms as have been killed in actual armed clashes between criminals and prohibition officers?"

Before propounding his series of questions to the wets, Poland declared that "the present wave of wet publicity is especially contrived to offset the value of the postscript taken by President Hoover in his inaugural address and the overwhelming defeat received by the wets in the presidential campaign."

"I propose to appoint a national commission for a searching investigation of the whole structure of our Federal Government, and to make such recommendations as may be found desirable."

There is no suggestion here that the commission will be charged with determining whether the prohibition laws are enforceable. Under this language it would be charged only with improving methods of enforcing them. CHAPTER TWO.
Alexis Witky Disappears.

The Bradys are called on by Alexis Witky, son of an exiled Polish count, to help him recover some papers stolen by loan sharks. He tells them his story, and they promise to aid him.

ALEXIS returned to his room in Mrs. Walschewsky's flat. She was a sour, ill-tempered Polish woman whom the boy did not like. She met him at the head of the stairs. "Look here," she said. "I hear you got your job. First thing you'll be owing me money, so you'd better get out to-night. I have no time to waste with people who can't speak Polish, either."

The boy was astonished and offered to pay for his room in advance, although it was not due until the next day. Of course, ready money is not easy to come by, and he was not at all sure he could get it. He was waiting for a letter waiting for him which she handed over when he gave her the rent. The boy retired to his room and opened the letter eagerly. It read thus:

"Mister Witky: I no u but u don no me. I seen you by grasky's one time so I sposed u no de cops maid de ole man beet it so dat time I got dem papers in de box he swiped from u at miss Wil's. So if u'll come to de marble yard foot of — street at 11 clock an wanter gimme ten for dat box u get it—see?"

ALEXIS knew where the marble yard was, and he determined to be there at the appointed time. His spirits began to soar at the thought of getting the box for $10; then they took a sudden tumble, for he recalled the terrible beating he had received on the night he accepted Grohogan's invitation.

"Was this another frame-up?" he asked himself. The longer he thought about it the more sure he became that it was. He found it hard to decide whether to go or not, but he finally went.

He failed to return. Next day he had an appointment with Old King Brady which he failed to keep. Harry went after him and reported to Old King Brady on his return that he was afraid it was all a fake.

"Hal!" cried the old detective. "Perhaps. But he must either be given to reading novels or he has a very vivid imagination."

Unknown to himself, Alexis was going into very great danger. Reaching the vicinity of the marble yard at the appointed hour he looked around, but no one was in sight. The neighborhood was a lonely one, and he walked down to the open pier at the foot of the street. Alexis sat down on one of the marble blocks to wait. "It may be all a fake," he thought.

He had been seated only a few minutes when he heard a move behind him, and he turned his head to look and spied a roughly dressed young man who held a horse blanket between his hands.

Alexis & Kidnapped.

Instantly before he could move—the blanket was thrown over his head and the man jumped on him.

"Shoot him, Dave, if he squeaks," he exclaimed, and as he said it, another man seized Alexis around the body, hugging him tight. "Now we got him," he chuckled. "Help me get him on board de boat. It's to be hoped dat guy will come down wid de cash. I'm after t'inking he's nutty."

"So do I, Pete," replied Dave, "but he may have money for all dat."

They lifted Alexis between them and started away. He attempted to call out and get rapped on the head. "None of dat," said Pete. "Sure's yer do it again I'll croak yer—see?"

Evidently there had been a loose end left to the rope and the aid Alexis was lowered into a rowboat and laid full length on the bottom. The boat began to move.

"What can it all mean?" Alexis asked himself, and now he began to think of Grohogan. It wouldn't do to try to speak he decided, so he lay as still as he could, hoping soon to be released from his uncomfortable position.

At length a landing was made and Alexis lifted out of the boat and put into a wagon, in which he was treated to a long ride over a very rough street. When the wagon stopped, Pete got out and was gone a few minutes. When he returned, he said, "Well, I got it! He cashed in all right!"

"Come on, we have to carry him," Alexis was carried in then and deposited on what felt like a table. A gruff voice said, "Good-night, boys," and then the outer door was shut and bolts shot.

"Ivan! Oh, Ivan!" the gruff voice called.

Alexis now recognized the voice as that of Ignatius Grohogan, his father's former friend.

What Today Means to You

April 15.

By MARY BLAKE

"ARIES."

IF April 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you are from 1:30 p. m. to 2:45 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. to 11 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

There will be sensed today a great feeling of energy and a keen desire to be actively diligent. This will, of course, assist you in the development of your plans. Care must be exercised to avoid a quarrelsome disposition, as the signs denote a tendency in this direction.

Children born today will express irritability and a tendency toward sulphuriness and moroseness. Correct discipline will do much to overcome these traits, as they have sunnier characteristics which only need to be developed.

You like and enjoy the best things of this world, but you are not always willing to pay their price. You want improvements without the taxes, you want results without the labor. There is nothing wrong with your ability, but you are spasmodic in its display. Your energy is not a constant factor. You are ambitious, but not to such a degree that it stimulates you to untiring effort. You would rather do less and take less. Your pride or a short-lived enthusiasm often calls for your best efforts and the world catches glimpses of the latent talent which you possess.

You only need a permanent stimulus or some factor to keep you on the up grade and you need never take a back seat.

You have a magic touch, an artist's eye, hands that obey and many other native-born qualities which you only half appreciate. You have no right to make so little use of the blessed talent with which you are endowed. Others may flunk, but you are not always willing to pay their price. You want improvements without the taxes, you want results without the labor. There is nothing wrong with your ability, but you are spasmodic in its display. Your energy is not a constant factor. You are ambitious, but not to such a degree that it stimulates you to untiring effort. You would rather do less and take less. Your pride or a short-lived enthusiasm often calls for your best efforts and the world catches glimpses of the latent talent which you possess.

Successful people born April 15: Joseph E. Brown, former Governor of Georgia.

George W. N. Yost, inventor.

Horace Porter, soldier and promoter.

Henry James, Jr., novelist and critic.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES McDONALD

"We Mean It!"

DEAR Miss McDonald: "Just what do you mean by stating that two is just a double tragedy?" That discovery of yours about matches the other world's worst joke from the pen of another mad enthusiast of woe—Ben Lindsey, who in spirit vein remarked that "marriage today is just plain hell for most of those who go into it!" Now, what I rise to inquire is where do crepe hangers get these ideas?

Why do you, Miss McDonald, make a statement that no married reader can possibly believe, and that unfortunately, too many unmarried ones really will believe? One marriage out of two can not possibly be a "tragedy." We should have been right with you had you said a "comedy"—but tragedy—never! One marriage out of every two is a joke, a farce, but not a tragedy. In fact, I think most people enjoy the mess they make of marriage. Haven't you noticed the most unlucky always remarry, again and again? Where do you get the tragedy of that? Isn't it the biggest of jokes?

Two people standing up in front of the world solemnly swearing—mind you, before God—that their feelings 50 years hence will be identical with their present happy aberration—are clowning. Take them seriously and the farce is disastrous. For one so much the sophisticated, are you not in this respect very naive? Are you sincerely astonished that love-light dims and vows are broken?

Why, lady, do you "pick" on marriage? Here is a nice, moldy old tradition that has worked and been worked for centuries and done a lot of good in its time, and here you come along, you and your brood, calm-disturbers, and start raising whoopee, and what-not, thou art unlike thy father. The letters and papers are now in my possession. I purchased them from Grabecky for a thousand dollars. Ivan!

The door opened and Ivan appeared. "Take him away and make him understand."

"Your Imperial Majesty," replied Alexis, "the papers were stolen from me."

"Ha! Explain."

Alexis told the story feeling that the man already knew it.

He was right. Grohogan exclaimed, "Boy, thou tellest the truth, so at least thou art unlike thy father. The letters and papers are now in my possession. I purchased them from Grabecky for a thousand dollars. Ivan!"

The door opened and Ivan appeared. "Take him away and make him understand."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

By H. I. PHILLIPS.
"INNOCENCE" OR A NIGHT CLUB HOSTESS.

Q. Now, then, was liquor sold in your club?
A. What was the word again, please?
Q. Liquor.
A. How do you spell it?
Q. L-I-Q-U-I-D.
A. It's a kind of sandwich, isn't it?
Q. Do you mean to sit there and tell the court you do not know what liquor is?
A. I haven't the least idea. If it isn't a sandwich it's a kind of salad isn't it?
Q. Certainly not.
A. Oh, I know now. It's a jelly. I remember hearing somebody speak of it.
Q. Don't you know very well that liquor is a liquid and comes in a bottle?
A. Really, I don't know anything about it. I have never seen any in my whole life. All I know about such things is hearsay.
Q. How about wine?
A. I have a slight idea what wine is: it's a crying noise made by a dog.
Q. I'm talking about champagne. You know what champagne is, do you not?
A. When I was a very little girl I remember seeing the word in a dictionary and asking my dear old mother, bless her, what it was.
Q. Did she tell you?
A. Certainly. She said it was Slavonian for olive oil.
Q. Judge (interrupting). What we are trying to determine is whether people ever drank intoxicating beverages in your place. Was there ever any drunkenness in a New York night club? Why, I never heard of such a thing!
Q. Judge—You don't mind my asking the question?
A. Well, it wasn't very gentlemanly, and I think you should apologize.

Judge—Will it be all right if we all apologize?
A. Yes.
Judge, Prosecuting Attorney and Court Attendants—We respectfully apologize for bringing up the question of liquor and for even intimating that there would be any intoxication in a night club. It was quite rude of us to ask. Do you accept the apology?
A. Yes, but don't let it happen again.

ADD NEEDLESS CASES.
Henry Ford has $72,000,000 less than he had a year ago. His cash on hand now being limited to $582,629,543. Well, he'll just have to make last year's straw hat go another season.

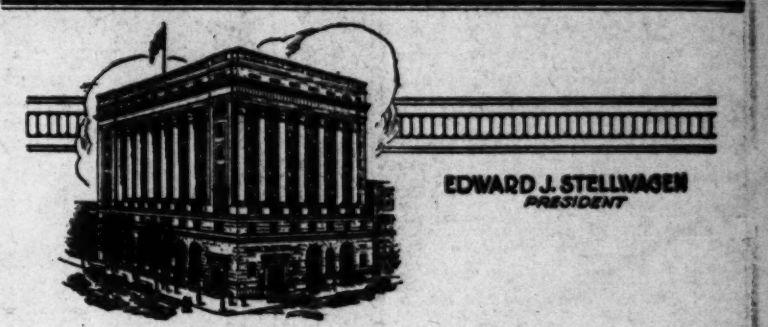

That's what comes of jilting Lizzie.
Bridget Parry, hotel scrubwoman, held nearly five months in the Rothstein murder mystery, has at last been released on bond. The police have evidently made enough progress to make to the definite conclusion that the crime was not committed with a mop handle.

PRESENTING GEN. DAWES.
Gen. Dawes has been chosen as Ambassador to Great Britain, which is just one more proof that a show that does well in this country is a safe bet for a trial in England.

Mr. Sinclair's case has been in the courts so long that he is practically in the position of a man going to jail for an offense committed in his early boyhood.

New Chinese Gunboat.
Shanghai (U.P.).—The gunboat Yung Shui, the latest addition to Nationalist China's fast growing navy, has been launched at Kiangnan Dock. It is China's forty-seventh warship and is the first of the vessels to be built for China's fourth naval squadron.

NATIONALS BEATEN BY GIANTS IN 10 INNINGS, 2-1

Voigt and Held Defeated by D. C. Pair

Pitt and Shorey Score, 5 and 4; Latter Is Individual Star.

Indian Spring Players Beat McCarthy and McCallum.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

GEORGE J. VOIGT, three-time winner of the North and South amateur championship at Pinehurst, and Eddie Held, also famous as a golfer, were defeated yesterday afternoon in a four-ball match on the course of the Bannockburn Club by Harry G. Pitt, of the Manor Club and Middle Atlantic champion, and John C. Shorey, District Junior champion and a member of the Bannockburn Club, 5 and 4, in an 18-hole contest.

The members of the Bannockburn Club, naturally jubilant over this unexpected result, were particularly gratified because their fellow club member was the star performer in the competition. Playing the first nine in 35, par figures, Shorey had halved the first hole with Held in a par 4, had won the second by running down a 15-foot putt for a birdie 4 and had also won the third in a par 4 when Held took three putts and Voigt had failed to reach the green on his second.

Pitt figured in the fourth hole with a par 4, two putts on the green, but it was Shorey who secured a half on the sixth with a par 3 and another half on the ninth. In the outward round Voigt and Held had only one hole to their credit, the eighth, when Held ran down a four-foot putt for a birdie 2. It was rather remarkable that in the fourteen holes which were played this was the only hole which Voigt and Held won. They were 3 down at the turn.

On the tenth hole Pitt again came to the rescue by chipping into the cup from off the green for a birdie 4, while his partner could not do better than 6, after an excursion into the woods. With the next three holes halved, Shorey put the contest away on ice by scoring a par 4 on the fourteenth hole for the decisive win. Throughout the match Voigt was persistently short of the green on his approaches and Held was driving a long ball but was too frequently off the fairway. Both Voigt and Held were also handicapped by their inability to properly gauge the greens, both of them losing several holes by taking three putts. If the competition had been Shorey playing the best ball of both Voigt and Held, the result would have been different.

Traynor, at Third, Holds Key to Success of Bucs This Season, Says Writer

Herewith is the fourteenth of a series of articles dealing with the pennant prospects of all major league teams by sixteen leading newspapers.

By CAPT. J. L. CARNEY (Baseball Expert, Tri-State News Service).

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 14.—The Pittsburgh Pirates may finish the 1929 baseball season in better third place, but if such an unforeseen occurrence is registered, even the team's most sanguine admirers and the Pittsburgh sport writers will have guessed wrong. There is no inclination here to overestimate the Pirates' strength this year. Pie Traynor, around whom the infield is built, comes through in good physical shape Barney Dreyfuss' aggregation has a change to make things warm for the team that wins the pennant. Otherwise, third position will be about their limit.

Manager Donie Bush isn't doing any French, the two new acquisitions, look like real pitchers.

Backing up the Pirate pitching staff unequaled in other league teams for the number of first-class pitchers, is a team that, if Traynor's best services for the whole season could be considered, would rank as being strong enough to win the pennant.

Bush Has Given Up Idea of Using Traynor at Short.

Manager Bush has given up the idea of using Traynor at shortstop with Grantham or Adams or Stoner at third, and instead has sent Traynor back to the hot corner, has stationed Adams at shortstop and Bartel at second and has returned Grantham to the outfield. With four such men as Paul and Lloyd Waner, Grantham and Brickell at his command following the latest Gammons' form reversal, Manager Bush unquestionably has one of the best outfields in captivity. Trials at first, second and third bases have demonstrated that Grantham does not belong in the infield, so he may find his proper place in the left garden and if so, George and the Waners will form a combination without an equal for hitting power, fielding ability and speed.

The Bucs flashed the strongest attack in the majors last year, they are equal to the best in speed and with their pitching vastly improved, they will have a fine chance for the pennant this year if Traynor comes through in old time form. Otherwise they will have to play their best ball at all times to finish in third place.

Amateurism and Prohibition Present Parallel Problems

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The effort to enforce amateurism among the athletes runs generally parallel with the effort to enforce the Volstead act. The A. A. U. is now engaged in a survey of its problems, and for the first time is entertaining a proposition to modify the rules so as to permit of amateurism of considerable professional content by volume.

The A. A. U. is something like the National Prohibition Bureau. It is supposed to enforce a law which declares certain acts to be criminal which are not criminal in themselves. Moreover, this law challenges the natural tendency of human kind to profit by their talents. It is entering into a constant state of war with a great many scofflaws among the amateurs as well as with distinguished hypocrites who are politically amateur, but personally professional. I believe the prohibition department has similar problems. Mr. Avery Brundage, the president of the A. A. U., by direction of the executive committee, has sent to the 157 regional governors, roughly corresponding to the district enforcement chiefs of the prohibition department, a questionnaire of 66 points, some of which suggest that the A. A. U. has come almost to the point of acknowledging that enforcement is not much good if it does not govern.

Defining Amateurism by Local Option Has Disadvantages.

The A. A. U. has not gone so far as to propose a referendum among the athletes to determine whether they wish to be. In this respect the effort to enforce strict amateurism has nothing to match the Wisconsin election on the matter of prohibition. For that matter, the prohibition agencies do not approve the Wisconsin referendum, either. So on the whole, the A. A. U. and Mr. Brundage, in consenting to discuss modification of the amateur laws at all, are a little more responsive to the will of the athletes than the Congress of the United States.

Thus far nobody has suggested that amateurism be defined by local option and perhaps it were better not to suggest such a thing at all. If such a plan were adopted, one political subdivision of the A. A. U. might decide that any one who makes less than $100,000 a year is not a professional in fact, just as the State of New York, under state rights, might decide that non-Bourbon is not intoxicating in fact. Thus, an amateur with a fairly lucrative practice in his home jurisdiction on reporting for competition in another jurisdiction, might find his amateurism subject to challenge, just as a New York citizen, journeying through Indiana with a bottle of non-intoxicating whiskey, might become the victim of a misunderstanding. Still, the same situation exists at the present time in international athletic relations and there seems to be no difficulty.

American Amateurs Have Immunity Privilege.

A French amateur, for instance, is permitted to capitalize his athletic distinction to the limit of his acumen, but is permitted to compete in the United States against American amateurs who would be demoralized for the same conduct. I do not mean to say that the French amateurs make more money than the Americans, but merely that their rules permit them to make more money, whereas the Americans get theirs under a privilege corresponding to the congressman's immunity from bag-inspection when returning from Panama. They make money, but it would be an insult to call it a bribe. In Indiana, the secretary of the A. A. U. states that suggestion is likely to be voted down. He thinks an element of amateurs would be sure to demand and receive more for competing and is disturbed by the idea of having to maintain surveillance over these athletes under such conditions.

Battle of Enforcement and Evasion in All Sports.

"It would be almost impossible to get the evidence on them," Mr. Ferris says. "It is hard enough to enforce the amateur laws in strictly amateur meets. The present amateur laws are quite severe, but, taking the Indiana prohibition as a model, they could be made more so. In Indiana a citizen may be sent to prison upon a common policeman's representation that he smelled liquor on the defendant's breath."

Final Workout Here Today For Nats

Jones or Braxton to Start in Opener Tomorrow.

Johnson Is Confident That West Has Ability as Hitter.

By FRANK H. YOUNG. (Staff Correspondent of The Post.)

NEW YORK, April 14.—With the most successful exhibition season in the history of a Washington Club ended here yesterday afternoon, Manager Walter Johnson tonight led his men back to the Capital City where they will impatiently await the going which sends them in action against the Athletics on Tuesday.

Johnson, chief of the Washington club, said tonight that he was confident that West had the ability to hit for the pennant.

Many Seats Unsold For Opener Tuesday

Approximately 12,000 unsold seats will go on sale at the American League Baseball Park Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, officials of the Washington club announced last night. These seats will be on sale as long as they last and orders will be filled at the ticket windows only.

There are some unsold reserved seats also, the club officials stated. These may be obtained at any time before the game until the supply is exhausted.

Connie Mack's Athletics in the American League opener Tuesday.

Johnson has booked a workout in the Clark Griffith Stadium tomorrow morning when the final training ticks will be in.

Just before boarding the rattler here for home, Johnson explained his outfield policy, which has puzzled fans, players and scribes, who were wondering why Sam Rice was being kept out of action as a regular. Red Barnes has been playing well and hitting and consistently, but Sam West has been unable to get started at the tee and, in view of Rice's .328 stick mark, Johnson said he was not sure that West is a much better hitter than he has shown himself to be this spring. I am confident that once he gets started, he will go like a house afire, the same as he did when given a real chance during the second half of last season.

Johnson Expects West to Be Star Player for Years.

A fielder and thrower, he ranks with a fielder, while he has great spirit and never gives up. When he finally develops, he likely will be a star for years, as I know, and I am satisfied that he has the natural ability to make it worth my while waiting for him.

"We have been winning consistently all spring with West not hitting particularly well and as long as we can continue to do so, I plan to keep him in the lineup," Johnson said. "Of course, if we run into trouble and hit a slump after the season starts, I'll have to change my plan, but right now I am determined to give West more time and I am not worried a bit that he will disappoint me. He has borne the reputation of being a natural hitter and you can bet that he'll come through."

"As to Rice, fans need not worry but that he will get plenty of chances to earn his salary, and I am ready to step in there any time I need him and I look for him to have many a game for us as a pinch hitter even if he does use his leg in and out. Having a fellow like him around makes any manager feel good."

Johnson will not decide upon his opening day pitcher until after tomorrow's workout. Because of his recent loss, Earl Brown was mentally booked by "Sir Walter" from the day he signed as manager.

"Bud" had looked so exceptionally good, however, while Braxton was punished by the Giants in Washington Thursday, that he will depend upon to give his team a good start.

Little Extra Rest Does Not Hurt Jones and Braxton.

As a matter of fact, both are ready, and either is likely to pitch winning games. Johnson said tonight that he was confident that West had the ability to hit for the pennant.

The infield is likely to function as it is through the entire season in the absence of injuries, Johnson declares, while he also adds that, instead of rattling Muddy Ruel as a one-man catching staff, as has been the case in the past, he ranks "Judy" Tate Barba, former pitcher for Fidel, as a southpaw hitter, and the Nationals have too many of these in the lineup, he probably will do all of his work when right-handers are pitching against the Nats.

Jim Jeffries to Referee Emanuel-Hudkins Bout

Los Angeles, April 14 (A.P.).—James J. Jeffries, world's heavyweight champion of two decades ago, will referee the catchweight struggle at Wrigley Field here tomorrow night between Armand Emanuel, clever San Francisco heavyweight, and Aoe Hudkins, Nebraska "wildcat."

Commissioner James Woods of the State athletic commission stated today that Jeffries had agreed to be the third man in the ring. It previously had been announced that George Blake, a veteran boxing figure and now manager for Fidel, La Barba, former flyweight champion, would referee.

Emanuel and Hudkins completed their training camps with light limbering up today.

Believe It or Not.

New York Clubs Are Favorites in Races; Yanks Bow to Dodgers, Ruth Fans Twice

16 Teams Await Start of Pennant Races Tomorrow.

By HERBERT W. BARKER. (Associated Press Sports Writer.)

SIXTEEN major league baseball teams will start the season tomorrow, the first of the 164-day season, and the Yankees and Dodgers are the favorites to win the pennant.

On or before October 6, closing day of the 1929 campaign, fourteen teams will be left free to offer alibis, while the remaining two are battling it out in the world series.

So far as expert opinion goes, they could start playing the world series now with the New York Yankees, American League champions for the last three years, meeting their metropolitan rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, National League champions, in the first game of the series.

But fortunately for the nonplayers and the fans, pennants are not decided just that way. Much can happen to a club in a 164-day season, and the experts are wrong just as often as they are right—often more so.

But the Yankees, despite some pitching worries and an infield experiment that is yet to be tested, seem to rate a jump or two ahead of the American League field.

Giants' Advantage on Paper Is Slight; Others Strong.

"The Giants' paper" margin in the National League is so slight as to be almost nonexistent. Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh appear strong enough to win the pennant if they can get the "breaks."

Chief opposition to the Yanks' fourth consecutive championship probably will come from Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, the St. Louis Browns, the Detroit Tigers and Washington Nationals. Cleveland, Chicago and Boston appear slated for the last three positions without debate.

Mack has made virtually no change in his Athletics at second, which gave the Yankees many an anxious moment last summer; the Browns, under skillful handling by Dan Howley, surprised the experts by finishing third and making so again; the Tigers, of Detroit, with great potentialities, have Bucky Harris at the helm this year; Washington, with Walter Johnson as manager, has compiled a sensational record in spring training games and looks like the "dark horse" of the coming campaign. But over and above all these teams hangs the menace in the bats of Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri and Meusel, of the Yankees. Miller Huggins thinks those bats will give him another title.

National League Battle Looks Like Another Real Struggle.

The National League campaign, at this moment, looks like another ding-dong battle. The Giants, with a well-balanced club, have the advantage of John McGraw's genius for getting the most out of his men, but the Cubs, with Hornsby at second base, look almost as formidable. The St. Louis Cardinals, champions last year, are conducting an infield experiment that may or may not turn out and Billy Southworth must work with a pitching staff that is rapidly getting no younger. The Pittsburgh Pirates, with a great batting punch and a fine pitching staff, may drop many games before Donie Bush arrives at an effective infield.

Three Umpires Work National League Games

New York, April 14 (A.P.).—Announcing that three umpires would officiate at all National League games, President John A. Heydler today made his assignments for the opening contests Tuesday. The president's edict sent Rigler, Hart and Stark to Boston; McCormick, Pinnman and Reagon to Philadelphia; Quigley, Moran and McLaughlin to Cincinnati, and Klem, Jorda and Magerkurth to Chicago.

Two umpires new to the National League will make their first appearance in the opening games, George Magerkuth, promoted from the Pacific Coast League, and Edward McLaughlin, up from the Southern Association.

Giants Tie Score as Hayes and Barnes Let Fly Fall.

Hadley Hurls 5 Scoreless Frames; Marberry Victim.

By FRANK H. YOUNG. (Staff Correspondent of The Post.)

POLO GROUNDS, New York, April 14.—With the infield heavy and the air cold and damp enough to numb the players' hands and chill to the bone the 3,500 rabid fans present, the Giants and Nationals battled to ten innings here this afternoon before the National League took the verdict, 2 to 1.

A single past Myer by Andy Reese broke up the game in the sixth inning with the runners crowded as a result of Reese's double and two passes issued by Fred Marberry.

It was a real ball game, the play fast and snappy and good fielding predominating despite the fact that three errors were charged. Five double plays were turned in, three by the Nats, while Bluge and Jackson played consistently and brilliantly throughout.

Irving Hadley started for the Nats and hurled five scoreless innings before turning the job over to Marberry. Carl Hubbell, Larry Benton and Fred Fitzsimmons did the alien flinging. Each team was credited with nine hits. Myer, Goellin and Bluge getting two each for the Nats, with Ott and Terry leading the Giants' attack with the same number of safeties.

Nats Gain Only Run Off Hubbell in 2 Innings.

Hubbell fanned three Nats in the first two frames, but between these happenings they managed to score their lone run. They threatened in the first, when, after West had struck out, Myer singled and took third when Goellin followed suit. Barnes watched a third strike pass him and the inning ended when an attempted double theft failed of success.

It looked as though the second would net the Nats several runs when Bluge, first up, singled, Judge walked, and Hayes doubled Osis home, but Hubbell then managed to jam on the brakes and retire the next three in order.

Welsh singled in the first for the Giants and Terry and Jackson were credited with safeties in the second, first up, singled, Judge walked, and Hayes doubled Osis home, but Hubbell then managed to jam on the brakes and retire the next three in order.

RACING SCENE SHIFTS TO HAVRE DE GRACE TODAY

Stars to Clash In $15,000 Harford

12-Day Meeting Featured by Four Big Stake Races.

1,300 Horses Quartered at Track, $175,000 to Be Distributed.

Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE, April 14.—The scene of the Maryland's major racing season shifts here tomorrow when the Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association's twelve-day spring meeting gets under way. The Harford Handicap, a $15,000 dash of three quarters of a mile—is the day's feature. Three-year-olds and upward will compete. This is one of the four stakes to be renewed during this meeting. Others are the $15,000 Philadelphia, $15,000 Aberdeen, and the Chesapeake, carrying a light purse. More than $175,000 in purses, none of a smaller value than $1,000, will be distributed during the meeting. There is an assemblage of more than 1,300 horses now quartered at this track.

Harness Horse Races

At Night Are Planned

Toledo, Ohio, April 14 (A.P.)—Horse races at night are planned for the June and July seasons of the Grand Circuit races. It was announced here today. Application has been made for the incorporation of the Toledo Driving Park, Inc., to develop the Miami race track here for the night races. The backers of the company believe the attendance would be much larger here at night.

The company's plan is to illuminate the mile track with flood lights. Experimental lights will be placed next week.

The new company succeeds the Toledo Driving Club which formerly handled the races here.

KENILWORTH JUNIORS WIN.

Adair buried the Kenilworth Juniors 6-4-4 victory over the Randolph Highland Nine yesterday for the Kenilworth diamond. For games with the winners, phone Atlantic 1753-J.

LISKA PEWEEVS WIN.

The Ad Liska Peweevs scored an easy 7-0 triumph over the Kenilworth Juniors yesterday. Wilcoxen, Richardson and Blomby shone at bat.

THE MORNING LINE

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 14.—Martinsburg baseball field today was eagerly awaiting the arrival tomorrow of Manager Dan O'Leary and about fourteen of Connie Mack's young athletes who hope to spend the summer months as members of this city's Blue Ridge League Baseball Club. The youngsters are to come here from Philadelphia, where O'Leary has been in conference with officials of the Athletics for several days. They will be joined in the ensuing few days by several players from various sections of the country. Already eight exhibition games have been scheduled by heads of the Mountaineers. Harrisburg, Hagerstown and Wilkes-Barre are to be met twice each, while one encounter apiece is scheduled with the House of David and the Cuban Stars.
